Medical Home® software selected to support Bioheart Health Monitor

The Bioheart Health Monitor is an interactive and simple to use device, designed specifically to improve the way of providing healthcare to patients outside hospitals suffering from chronic diseases such as heart failure, COPD and diabetes. The Bioheart Health Monitor engages the patients through personalized daily interactions and questionnaires while collecting vital signs and transmitting the information directly into a database using regular telephone lines.

Medical Home® software provides the web-based platform needed to manage data from this innovative home-based monitor, deliver appropriate alerts and documentation, and to feed clinical information systems used for patient management and feedback.
